

GIRL SHOTS HERSELF WITH SMALL RIFLE

A 15-year-old Mt. Joy township girl was in serious condition in Hanover hospital today as the result of what state police of the Gettysburg sub-station said was a self-inflicted bullet wound in the abdomen.

State police said the girl was Phyllis Thieret, 15, of Hanover R. 4. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Thieret, whose home is located on the Littlestown-Hanover highway about a half mile from the Pleasant Grove school.

Used Small Rifle

Police said that the Thieret girl had an argument with a girl friend early Monday afternoon. She returned to her home, and in the absence of other members of the family shot herself with a .22-caliber rifle owned by an older sister, June Thieret, 20.

The time of the shooting was placed by state police at 2:20 p. m., daylight saving time. Miss Thieret ran from the house to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Emma Reinholdt. Mrs. Reinholdt and another neighbor, Mrs. Dorothy Laughman, "flagged" a passing motorist, and Mrs. Laughman went with the girl to the Hanover hospital.

Expected To Live

Doctors operated on the girl and removed the bullet, state police said. She was expected to recover.

Both of Miss Thieret's parents are employed during the day, the father at the Barnes wall paper plant in York, and Mrs. Thieret at the Beaudin Shoe company factory in Hanover. Two older sisters are also employed, police said.

The rifle used by Miss Thieret and owned by her sister was one they used for target shooting in a nearby quarry, according to the authorities.

Securities Sold At Public Auction

At the public sale of securities belonging to the trust estate of the late Clinton L. Mehning, held Saturday afternoon in front of the Littlestown State bank building at Littlestown the following shares of stocks were disposed of: Three shares capital stock of the Littlestown Board of Trade, par value $10, brought $11.50 per share; 40 shares capital stock of the Keystone Cabinet Company, par value $50, brought from $53 to $55.50 per share; and 148 shares of capital stock of the Littlestown State bank, par value $10, brought $20 per share. Arthur Boyd was auctioneer, and James R. Strever and William B. Downes together with the First National bank of Gettysburg served as trustees.

Littlestown BIBLE CLASS TO MEET THURSDAY

The Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church, delivered the sermon at the Sunday evening open-air union service held in Crouse Park. His topic was "True Greatness." Redeemer's choir sang "Lovely Appearance" (Gounod), and Doris LeGore sang the solo parts. The Rev. Charles B. Rebert, secretary of the ministerium, gave the invocation and read the scripture; the Rev. David S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, gave the pastoral prayer; and the Rev. John C. Brumbach, pastor of Christ Reformed church, pronounced the benediction.

The Starr Bible class of St. Paul's Lutheran church will meet Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. William Dixon. The program committee comprises Mrs. Dixon, Miss Rose Barker, and Mrs. Edward Brown.

The Rev. Grantas E. Hoopert and George A. Maitland, Sr., attended the Methodist Men's convention at Newton Hamilton, Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Alta Wickenheiser, office manager of the Savoy Shoe company in Elizabethtown, and Mrs. Winifred Groft, a member of the office staff there, visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Altoff.

RELEASE BOYS IN LOOTING

Borough Police Chief Robert C. Harpster today revealed that four local youths, ranging in age from 15 to 18 have been released after questioning on a charge of larceny from a parked automobile. The local man from whom they allegedly had stolen an auto headlight lens refused to bring charges against them.

Harpster said that the youths are suspected of having removed a number of articles and parts from parked automobiles. The police chief said that in conducting the investigation he followed the four as they drove around town during the past several nights; that they parked in "every public and private parking lot in town" during the course of the several nights and walked about through the lots but were not observed at any time picking up anything from the other cars.

The chief plans to continue the investigation.

SCARLET FEVER CASE

Yvonne A. Settle, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Settle, Cumberland township, Gettysburg R. 3, is confined to her home after contracting scarlet fever. The Settle home was quarantined Monday evening by William I. Shields, Adams county sanitary officer.

A new minister will be assigned to the Benderville Methodist church for more than five years, has been assigned to the Millintown charge. He will preach his farewell sermons on August 10 and, with Mrs. Harrison and their two daughters will move to Millintown on August 15.

During his pastorate at Benderville, the Rev. Mr. Harrison attended Dickinson college receiving a B.A. degree after which he entered Drew Theological seminary at Madison, New Jersey, from which he received a B.D. degree in October 1946.

He has served as chaplain of the Boy Scout committee of troop No. 72, Benderville, and organized the Community Youth group at Wenksville. He served as superintendent of the department of Evangelism of the Adams County Council of Religious Education and was recently appointed to represent the organization at the State Sunday School convention which will be held at Scranton in October. He served as superintendent of Evangelism of the Sixth district of the Adams County Council of Religious Education and was recently appointed to the Adams County Welfare board.

A Gay Good-bye

Columbus, Ohio, July 29 (AP)—Close associates of Julius F. Stone, 91-year-old former Columbus industrialist who died last Friday in Santa Monica, Calif., received final postcards from him today bearing the picture of a snuffed candle and the following verse: "With a ripple of merry laughter, A smile and a gay goodbye To all who made life worth living; Back to the dust go I." Stone had the cards prepared prior to his death with instructions they were to be mailed the day he died.

CITES NEED TO CURB ENEMIES OF DEMOCRACY

Laws "with teeth in them" to prevent the spreading of anti-democratic ideologies were urged by the Rev. D. S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Littlestown, and charter member of the Littlestown Rotary club, in a talk on "Citizenship and Patriotism" given Monday evening at the regular meeting of the local Rotary club at the YWCA.

Sixty members of the club attended the session at which Dr. Kenneth Smoke and C. A. Bixler were introduced as new members. Dr. C. N. Gitt, past president, presented M. C. Jones, first president of the club, with a gavel. In making the presentation Doctor Gitt pointed out that the club has had a custom over the past few years of presenting each outgoing president with a gavel on which is engraved the past president's name and the year in which he held office. That custom was not in effect during the early years of the club and as a result no gavel had previously been given Mr. Jones.

Praises Founders

The latter then spoke in praise of the 20 men who joined him in establishing the local Rotary organization, and praised the "officers of the organization who through the past years have been so active in promoting the ideals of the organization and in increasing its size."

The speaker for the evening was introduced by Dr. Rasmus S. Saby. Pointing out that "when we think of citizenship and patriotism we usually think of flags flying and the sounds of troops marching," the Rev. Mr. Kammerer added that "actually the roots of our patriotism should be deeper than that."

"Our North American democracy is entirely different and unique from any other form of democracy," he continued, "we have a freedom that is to be more desired than precious stones. Eighty per cent of us are not grounded in the principles of our government, yet we need to be if we are to think in terms of genuine citizenship."

"There are those who know much of the freedom that we have, yet know little of the duties that go with it." (Please Turn to Page 7)

ASKS COURT TO RECOVER DEED TO FARM LAND

The Adams county court will be asked to force a "strawman" to remain a "strawman" according to a bill of complaint in an action in equity filed with the office of the county prothonotary.

According to the bill, filed by Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr., for Harvey P. Jones, Philadelphia, Jones is seeking to compel Ernestine Plummer, also of Philadelphia, to turn over a deed which was recorded in her name but paid for by Jones.

Jones claims, according to the bill, that he purchased a 162 acre farm in Liberty township August 23, 1945, from Robert B. and Barbara B. Brown. In the transaction, Jones claims, Miss Plummer, an employee of his, acted as "strawman" and the deed was placed in her name.

Cash and Mortgage

After paying $2,000 in cash for the farm, Jones claims, he paid the remainder through a mortgage for $3,500 secured from the First National Bank of Blue Ridge Summit.

Alleging that during the intervening period he paid for the upkeep and maintenance of the farm, Jones asserts that on May 20 the farm was sold to Simon Smith who paid $6,950 for the property. Smith posted a $1,042.50 down payment and later turned the property over to John T. and Ruth R. Junk, Emittsburg.

When the time came to surrender the deed to Mr. and Mrs. Junk, Jones claims, Miss Plummer refused to relinquish the paper.

Retains Deed

According to Jones, Miss Plummer agreed to act as "strawman" for $100 for the deed. She at first refused to sign over the papers until the mortgage was paid off. Jones said, and claims that now that the mortgage is satisfied she still refuses to sign over the deed to the Junks.

He is seeking an injunction to prevent her from selling the property to anyone other than Mr. and Mrs. Junk, a decree ordering her to convey title to the property to Mr. and Mrs. Junk, an order directing her to pay the costs of the case and attorney's fees, and a decree ordering her to direct the auctioneer in the May 20 sale to pay the $1,042.50 down payment, which is still being held by the auctioneer, over to Jones.

REOPENING OF SCHOOL ASKED BY 4 PATRONS

Contending that the closing of the Woodside school by the school board of Straban township, and the retention of the Good Intent school works, a hardship on the children and parents, and that the latter school is located on "one of the worst roads in the county," a delegation of school patrons from this township appeared before the county school board at the court house Monday night to ask that the Woodside school be kept open.

Neely Taughinbaugh, Hunters-town, was spokesman for the delegation of four which appeared before the board. The Straban township board recently completed the grading of the township's schools, and closed Woodside and Moritz's. Three schools in the township were closed a year ago, Fairview, Pines and Rocky Grove.

Under the grading plan, grades one, two and three will be taught at Hunterstown; grades one two, three and four at New Chester; and grades four five and six at both Good Intent and Round Top.

"The school directors made a mistake when they closed Woodside and kept the Good Intent school open," Mr. Taughinbaugh said. "In the winter, the road to Good Intent blows shut, sometimes for several days. It is one of the worst roads in the county to get into and it is unfair to the children to force them to go there."

Mr. Taughinbaugh and others who appeared before the county board with him Monday night were informed that the county board has no authority on the closing of schools or retention of others, and that the matter was one for the township board to decide. County Superintendent of Schools J. Floyd Slaybaugh, and Luther E. Jacobs, president of the county board, recommended that the men take the matter up with the township board.

"This is a matter which ought to be taken up with the township board." (Please Turn to Page 2)

SELLS SUMMER HOME

Mrs. Earl Forry, 138 Carlisle street, has received word that her son, Earl C. Forry, now with the army of occupation in Japan, has been promoted from private, first class, to corporal.

Cpl. Forry completed a year's service in the army Monday, his mother said. He received his basic training at Camp Lee, Va., and has been in Japan since March, located in Tokyo.

His mail reaches him Cpl. Earl C. Forry, 13218010, Company E, staff battalion, Hq. SVGP, EHQ-FEC, APO 500, care postmaster, San Francisco, Calif.

SCHOOLS OPEN SEPTEMBER 2, BOARD DECIDES

Opening of schools in Adams county was set by the County Board of School Directors for September 2, at a meeting of the board held Monday night in the office of Superintendent J. Floyd Slaybaugh in the court house here.

The board directed that a second appeal be made to township and borough school boards throughout Adams county for funds with which to meet the salary of a secretary in the county superintendent's office.

The county office was without a secretary, following the resignation of Mrs. Arthur Taylor, who was filling the position temporarily, until the employment of Miss Justine Charles, Cashtown, on July 7.

Miss Charles, a college graduate trained in social welfare and secretarial work, and formerly employed in Harrisburg, is working on a day-by-day trial basis. Dr. Robert A. Bream, assistant county superintendent said, and has been giving excellent service.

The salary as provided by the county commissioners, for this position, is only $1,200 a year. The school board has experienced difficulty in obtaining a secretary with executive ability required of the job for this amount, it was explained. Several school boards in the county have already contributed in making up the difference needed.

Boards with more than two schools are asked to give $20; those with two schools $10 and those with no schools $5. It was explained that the county superintendent's office does much of the secretarial work, making out reports for secretaries of local boards, which would cost them much more if they hired the work done individually.

Several school boards, have large balances, and could well afford to contribute toward the county secretary's salary, it was pointed out.

Dr. Bream reported a balance of $405.02 remaining in the school nurse fund.

The board approved the annual financial reports of Cumberland, Highland, Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Joy and Union townships and New Oxford; the auditors' reports of Conowingo, Cumberland, Freedom, Highland, Latimore, Mt. Joy, Mt. Pleasant, Tyronne and Union townships, and Benderville, and New Oxford; the budgets of Abbottstown, Berwick, Conowingo, East Berlin, Highland, Liberty, McSherrystown, Mt. Joy, Oxford and Union boards and the transportation plans of Berwick, Cumberland, Menallen, Mt. Joy, Oxford, Reading and Tyronne.

W. Preston Hull, Exalted Ruler of the Gettysburg Lodge of Elks No. 1045, has returned from Portland, Oregon, where he attended the Elks' national convention from July 13 to July 17. He traveled with a group of 180 Elks on a special train. The trip covered 10,000 miles.

Under the grading plan, grades one, two and three will be taught at Hunterstown; grades one two, three and four at New Chester; and grades four five and six at both Good Intent and Round Top.

"The school directors made a mistake when they closed Woodside and kept the Good Intent school open," Mr. Taughinbaugh said. # MAN ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH SLAYING

Baltimore, July 29 (AP)—Police today arrested a man they listed as Ray William Ridenour, 32, of (309 W. Rays street), Martinsburg, W. Va., and said he would be turned over to state police in connection with the death near Hagerstown, Md., early yesterday of Charles Taylor, alias Charles Terzien.

Taylor's body was found along the Williamsport pike six miles south of Hagerstown in Washington county. State's Attorney Martin Ingram said he apparently had been shot and tossed from his car.

Captain Henry J. Kriss, chief of Baltimore detectives, reported Ridenour was arrested as he got out of a cab with his girl friend, a waitress. Investigators said they had found in the pockets of Ridenour's new suit a key to a baggage locker at Camden station, which contained a satchel full of bloody clothing.

"Gun Went Off"

Capt. Kriss said Ridenour told him he was riding with Taylor "when the gun went off" and he bloodied his clothing when he slipped over to the driver's seat to drive Taylor's car.

Ingram said he understood the 52-year-old Taylor left a Martinsburg gambling spot Sunday night with about $3,500. Only $31 was found on his body.

A toll collector at the Williamsport bridge over the Potomac river reported Taylor crossed the bridge with another man in the car. Taylor's blood-soaked car was found several hours later parked in a junior high school grounds at Hagerstown.

Police also recovered a .45 revolver with which they theorized Taylor had been shot. They said a boy found it under the gate to a house in Hagerstown.

HONOR PASTOR AT RECEPTION

The Rev. Dr. Howard Schley Fox, pastor of Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church, and Mrs. Fox, were honored guests at a reception which members of the congregation held Sunday evening in the social room of the church in recognition of the degree of doctor of divinity which was recently bestowed upon the pastor by Franklin and Marshall college, Lancaster.

In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Fox, Mrs. W. Preston Hull and Mrs. Ray Kitzmiller representing the hostess committee, and Elmer Yoder, vice president of the church consistory, and Mrs. Yoder.

Flowers were used in decorating the rooms and the three tables, on the center one of which red was the predominating color carried out with gladioli and red candles in keeping with the colors of the degree bestowed.

Hostess Committee

Franklin and Marshall's colors, blue and white were carried out with white gladioli and carnations and blue delphiniums on second table. The third table, decorated with roses, held the punch bowl at which Mrs. Harry Lower and Mrs. John Dutta presided.

The hostess committee for the reception included Mrs. John D. Teeter and Mrs. W. Preston Hull, who served as co-chairmen. Mrs. Yoder, as the wife of a consistoryman; Mrs. Harry Lower, of the Altar Guild; Mrs. John Dutta, of Zwingli Circle; Mrs. Ray Kitzmiller, of Trinity circle; Mrs. Harrison Harbach, of Barkley Circle, and Mrs. Donald Fissel, of the church choir. They were assisted in the serving by Mrs. Stanley Hull, Miss Dora Rohrbaugh, Miss Nancy Ogden, Miss Barbara Yoder and Miss Nancy Teeter.

More than 100 persons attended the reception.

Weddings

Brehm-Beam
Smith-Shughart

In a double wedding ceremony performed by Rev. P. J. Horick in Mt. Zion Lutheran church, Good-year, at 2 p.m. Saturday, Miss Naomi Ruth Beam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Beam, Gardners R. D., became the bride of Donald E. Brehm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Brehm, Plainfield, and Miss Jeanette Mae Shughart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shughart, Carlisle R. D., became the bride of Gordon E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Smith, Carlisle R. D.

The double ring ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families and friends of both couples. The church was decorated with ferns and cut flowers for the occasion.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. O. D. Coble, Bendersville, gave a half-hour organ recital and also played during the ceremony. Rosalie Monahan sang "O, Promise Me," and "I Love You Truly." The traditional processional and recessional wedding marches were used.

The brides were given in marriage by their fathers.

Mrs. Brehm had as matron of honor her sister-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Brehm, Norma Weidner and Renee Beam were bridesmaids. Donna Weidner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Weidner, was flower girl.

Keneth Beam, brother of the bride, was best man for Mr. Brehm. The ushers were Eugene Weidner and Benjamin Nallor.

Mrs. Smith was attended by Mrs. Philip Karper as matron of honor. Her bridesmaids were Ida Heilman and Mary Martin. Donna Karper was flower girl.

Mr. Smith had John Smith for best man. The ushers were Herman Heilman and Richard Wert.

George Farley, Philadelphia, was ring bearer for both couples.

The brides wore white organdy fitted gowns with sweetheart neck line and finger tip veils which fell from crowns of rose buds and their corsages were of orchids and daisies.

The matrons of honor wore taffeta aqua gowns and carried bouquets of cut flowers. The flower girls wore white gowns and carried baskets of cut flowers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the homes of the respective brides' parents. Afterward both couples left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Canada and other northern points.

After their return each couple will reside at the brides' homes for the present.

Gibbs-Chronister

Miss Arlene R. Chronister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chronister, New Oxford, was united in marriage with Lester L. Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gibbs, East Berlin R. D. 1, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the First Lutheran church of New Oxford. The Rev. George E. Sheffer, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

The church was decorated with white gladioli. The couple was attended by Miss Lottie Kohler of New Oxford and John Wolf, Jr., of Harrisburg. The bride was attired in a dress of open blue with white accessories and a corsage of red roses. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride is employed by the G. C. Murphy company, Hanover, and the bridegroom is engaged in farming with his father. The couple will reside in an apartment at Spring Grove R. D. 3.

MAY ASK COURT TO BLOCK GAS LINE IN STATE

Harrisburg, July 29 (P)—A direct appeal to the state superior court was being considered today by anthracite mine leaders in an attempt to block construction of a new $5,000,000 125-mile natural gas pipeline into eastern Pennsylvania.

Michael J. Kosik, President, District No. 1, United Mine workers of America (AFL) said he would meet today with other mine union leaders to discuss the proposed pipeline project.

Michael P. Lawler, chairman of the Lackawanna county commissioners, said his group would also meet today to give careful thought to the pipeline which is considered a real danger to the anthracite region's economy.

Given Authority

O. E. McGregor, chairman of the anthracite committee of the Scranton chamber of commerce, said he would call a meeting of his committee without delay to consider appropriate action.

The authority for the construction of the pipeline was granted yesterday by the Public Utility Commission in its first split decision since the membership has been solidly Republican.

The five-member agency divided three-two on the pipeline issue with commissioners Harold A. Scragg and Henry Houck, both from the anthracite region, objecting that building of the main will "result in serious injury to the coal industry of this commonwealth, which industry has been and still is the foundation of Pennsylvania's economy."

The PUC majority, headed by chairman John Siggins, Jr., approved however, the application of Manufacturers Light and Heat company of Pittsburgh for the right to build the 14-inch line from Coatesville to Port Jervis, N. Y., on the grounds it was "necessary" for the safety of the public.

Wholesale Delivery

The order authorized the utility, a subsidiary of the Columbia Gas and Electric corporation of New York to build the line through Chester, Montgomery, Bucks, Lehigh, Northampton, Monroe and Pike counties, but barred the sale of natural gas to consumers along the route.

The utility will be permitted to deliver natural gas wholesale to the Home Gas Company, another Columbia subsidiary, in southern New York for service to consumers in that area who are now supplied in home with fuel from facilities connecting with Olean, N. Y.

"It is expected and the record shows, that the operation of the proposed pipeline will relieve to a substantial extent the facilities of applicant in western Pennsylvania which now supply home at the Olean connection as well as several natural gas distributing companies extending between Coatesville and the Pittsburgh area in southern Pennsylvania, including, among others, York and Gettysburg," the order stated.

Navy Captures Bikini's Wild Dog

Washington, July 29 (P)—The navy finally has captured the wild dog of Bikini.

The animal has been roaming the island since the atomic bomb explosion last summer.

After its capture in a ham-bone baited trap, the dog appeared to be in good condition on its diet of crabs, clams, and other food picked up on the island.

She will come back to the United States aboard the navy's scientific resurvey laboratory ship, the U. S. S. Chilton, to take her place with pig 311 and a goat, two other survivors of the Bikin A-bomb blast, the navy said today.

A navy party is conducting a six-week survey of the lingering radio activity on Bikini and the sunken ships in the Lagoon.

Pittsburgh, July 29 (P)—A 21-year-old youth, who aroused police suspicion because "he seemed to have something on his mind," today will be charged with the year-old slaying of choir boy, Raymond Howe, police Superintendent Harvey Scott says. The boy's decomposed body was found in a yard near his home 41 days after he disappeared from a swimming party in August, 1946.

Woman Seeks Easy Way To Catch Fish

Chicago, July 29 (P)—A woman telephoned Bob Becker, Chicago Tribune outdoor editor, yesterday and asked: "Where can I buy a fish caller?"

Becker asked her to repeat the question.

"A fish caller," the woman insisted. "It's a little thing you sit in a boat with and blow in and the fish come around so you can catch them."

"Well," Becker told her, "a duck caller I know about. A goose caller, a moose caller, a crow caller, yes. I've even heard about pig callers. But a fish caller, no."

"I'm afraid some one's been kidding you."

State Says Collum Purchased Dynamite

Santa Ana, Calif., July 29 (P)—Through the testimony of an arsenal operator, Ben Smith of Highlands, Calif., the state set out today to establish that George Collum purchased dynamite for experimental purposes before an explosion wrecked the yacht of the wealthy Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Overell March 15.

Collum, 21, and his college sweetheart, heiress Louise Overell, 18, are on trial charged with bludgeoning her parents, then dynamiting their yacht, the Mary E, in Newport harbor.

Prosecutor Eugene D. Williams said Smith, also a night jailer at San Bernardino, was summoned to testify about receipts for dynamite he sold. Smith was to be followed to the stand by L. A. Hill, a salesman for the Trojan Powder Company of Chatsworth, Calif. The state contends that 50 sticks of dynamite sold by Hill March 14 were used to blast the yacht.

Watch Lake For Body Of Heiress

Holderness, N. H., July 29 (P)—Little Squam lake was to be watched closely today for the body of Anne Straw, missing 20 year old heiress, in the hope that the lake, as waters often have done before, will give up its victim after a week.

Anne, pretty Smith college senior, vanished a week ago last night and veteran investigators said that in many cases bodies will rise to the surface after a week of immersion.

Despite rumors of various descriptions, New Hampshire state police still cling to the theory that the girl drowned in the lake after leaving the summer home of her father, H. Ellis Straw, Manchester, banker, on the lake shore.

Marital Troubles Oust College Head

Marietta, O., July 29 (P)—Dr. William Allison Shimer, president of Marietta college, today had a statement from the school's trustees declaring he had been asked to resign because of his divorce and re-marriage.

Two weeks ago while on a wedding trip in Canada he received a letter demanding his resignation. Returning here, he requested an explanation.

The trustees sent him a letter yesterday stating, "The reason was simply your separation, divorce and remarriage. The board was not concerned with the pros and cons of the divorce. It believes, however, that the way of life of a college president must be an inspiration to the students and a model both on and off the campus for all to live by."

Use Lie Detector, File Slaying Charge

Meadville, Pa., July 29 (P)—A lie detector test given a farmer of nearby Spartansburg by police investigating the death of his infant son a week ago resulted in charges of manslaughter in the death of another child a year ago.

District Attorney Kenneth W. Rice said Harvey Kellerman had during the test admitted striking three-year-old Harvey Jr., a short time before the child collapsed and died in the yard of their home in May 1946.

Rice said he was satisfied that the other child, a six-month-old twin boy, died accidentally when his head caught in the bars of his crib last week. Kellerman pleaded innocent to manslaughter and aggravated assault and battery before Alderman Dominick Lemme yesterday. A hearing was set for Friday.

WATER HEATER

Glass-lined for Cleanliness

It's here, ready for your inspection—the new electric water heater you've probably been hearing about. It's a heavy steel tank with a lustrous, fused-on glass lining which can't rust or corrode. That means clean hot water at every faucet... water for cooking without bothering with a test-tube.

And the cleanliness of this heater is permanent, because the special SMITH-way blue glass lining is flexible enough to expand and contract with the steel — doesn't chip or crack.

Let us tell you how a Permaglas Electric Heater will give you plenty of clean, hot water for every purpose, 24 hours a day, at low cost. Come in and see it soon.

Only the Permaglas
Water Heater Offers
All These Features:

1. Lined with Glass... rustproof, durable, the ultimate in sanitation.
2. Fiberglass Insulation... extra thick, to prevent heat loss and save electricity.
3. Dual Heating Elements... second element functions during peak demand.
4. Dual Thermostats... for completely automatic operation. Adjustable from 120° to 170° F.
5. Built-in Heat Trap stops heat-waiting circulation in piping when hot water faucets are closed.
6. Inlet Diffuser... minimizes mixing of incoming water with heated water.
7. Monolithic Construction... each part of tank is glass-lined separately, permitting inspection before joining by Smithwelding.
8. Anchorluc Assembly... interior and exterior parts are locked together for rigidity.
9. Rear-vent Connections... no visible pipes to mar the streamlined beauty.
10. Neatone Finish... glossy white enamel, easy to keep clean.

After piling up a 9-2 advantage in the early frames, the Legion managed to stave off defeat when the Moose rallied late in the contest. Sherman was the winning hurler while Baltzley twirled for the Moose.

DODGERS HOLD 7-GAME LEAD, BEAT CHICAGO

By JOE REICHLER

(AP Sports Writer)

Joe Hatten, the stylish southpaw of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who has beaten Chicago six times without a setback this season, needs only three more triumphs over the Cubs to tie the record for most victories over a club in one year.

The record of nine is held by Ed Reulbach of the 1908 Cubs whose victims, strangely enough, were the Dodgers.

Hatten pitched a three-hit 4-0 shutout over his "cousins" yesterday to extend the Dodgers' winning streak to 10 straight, not counting the protested 3-2 "victory" over the St. Louis Cardinals July 20. It is the longest winning streak of the season in the National league.

The win enabled the Dodgers to maintain their seven-game lead over the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals who staged one of their customary first finishes to nip the Boston Braves 8-7. The Braves dropped to nine games behind the Dodgers and one percentage point behind the third place New York Giants who lost to Cincinnati, 5-0.

Yanks Beat Tigers
In the only two American league games, the New York Yankees increased their first-place margin over the idle Boston Red Sox to 10 games by defeating the Detroit Tigers 5-1 and the Philadelphia Athletics won over the Chicago White Sox 5-3. Three National league games all were played during the daytime while the American league contests were played at night.

Held to three hits in eight innings by left-hander Johnny Schmitz, the Dodgers started the ninth inning assault when Jackie Robinson drew a walk and raced to second when the fourth ball was a wild pitch. Pete Reiser also walked and Carl Furillo bunted safely to load the bases. Robinson scored the first run when First Baseman Phil Cavarretta fumbled Dixie Walker's grounder. Singles by Bruce Edwards and Pee Wee Reese off Relief Pitcher Emil Kush brought in two more tallies. Two Cardinal catchers, Del Rice and Joe Garagiola, sparked the Redbirds' win over the Braves. Rice's three-run homer off left-hander Warren Spahn tied the score in the eighth. Garagiola's pinch hit single sent Enos Slaughter home with the decisive marker in the ninth.

Johnny Vander Meer, beaten in his last five appearances, handed the Giants their third shutout of the year and also halted the Giants' homer-hitting streak which had gone through 15 straight games, one short of the National league record. Rookie Vic Raschi, young importation from Portland of the Pacific Coast league, treated a Yankee Stadium crowd of 64,887 paid to some fine chucking as he held the Tigers to six hits in besting Hal Newhouser. Newhouser also allowed only six hits, but three walks and a pair of Tiger errors proved damaging. Johnny Lindell socked him for his seventh homer.

Hank Majeski smashed a two-run home in the last of the ninth to win for the A's over the White Sox.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Battling, Hank Majeski, Athletics—Homered with one on in the last of the ninth to give the Athletics a 5-3 victory over the White Sox. He doubled earlier in the game and scored a run.

Pitching, Joe Hatten, Dodgers—Pitched a three-hit 4-0 shutout over Chicago, his sixth straight conquest of the Cubs this season.

Catches 65 - Pound Marlin

A two hour and 55 minute long struggle occurred before Dan W. Greenawalt, Gettysburg R. D. 5, captured the seven feet, four inch long marlin shown in the picture above.

With Greenawalt, (right) is Captain George Willis, who operated the cruiser "Katherine" from which Greenawalt made the catch off Ocean City recently.

Greenawalt and Stanford Hoy, Steinhilber avenue, went to Ocean City and embarked on the "Katherine" at 7 o'clock on the morning. Greenawalt hooked the huge fish about five minutes after 10 o'clock.

During the struggle the fish had 1,200 feet of the 1,500 foot line on Greenawalt's reel.

The fish is the second marlin caught by the local man who last year on his first marlin fishing expedition landed a 6½ feet, 50 pound marlin in 50 minutes.

He plans to have the fish mounted.

As a result of his achievement he was presented with a certificate of membership in the Ocean City, N. J. Marlin club. The certificate states:

"This award made under authority of the mayor and city council of Ocean City, Md., certifies that Dan W. Greenawalt this day, July 14, 1947, fishing on Cruiser 'Katherine' captained by George Willis successfully hooked and landed a Marlin weighing 65 pounds, length 7 feet, four inches; girth, 25 inches, tail spread 24 inches, spear 22 inches and is therefore entitled to wear the official Marlin club button.

Signed: Daniel Trimmer, Jr., mayor"

Reading Golfer Has Easy Victory

Johnstown, July 29 (P) — Buddy Lutz, 19-year-old player of Reading Country club, won the annual Sunnehanna Invitation Golf Tournament Sunday with an easy 10-up victory over Charley Kunkle, of the host club.

Kunkle, the tournament chairman, was unable to stop the red-hot Lutz who turned in consistently good scores during the four-day event. Only the day before it was Lutz who ousted the defending champion, Harry (Billy) Haverstick, of Lancaster. He defeated Haverstick in the quarter finals, 3 and 2.

LANKY RELIEFER LIKES IT BEST IN THIS ROLE

By RAY PETERSON

Philadelphia, July 29 (P)—Lanky Russ Christopher, who has done relief on the mound for the Philadelphia Athletics in 29 games, says he definitely prefers that spot to the role of starting pitcher.

"This way I am able to get more action," says the 6-foot-4½-inch hurler who was so willow when the A's drafted him from Newark in 1941 that Connie Mack sent him a check for $500 with a suggestion that it be spent for treatment at a winter health resort.

"More variety, too," explains the lanky right-hander whose long, thin muscles warm up quickly when the situation calls for it.

And usually when Connie Mack calls on Christopher, the situation is critical.

Lake last night—

The A's were leading the Chicago White Sox 3-0 going into the ninth. Bill McCahan had held the Sox throughout the game. Then Ralph Hodgins got on base on an error and McCahan walked Floyd Baker and Luke Appling to load the sacks with none out.

Christopher took over.

He yielded two singles which enabled the White Sox to tie the score at 3-all but Hank Majeski, who had committed the error which put Hodgins on base, came through with a home run with one on to give Russ his sixth victory against six losses.

Never Gets Nervous

Russ says he never gets nervous because 29 appearances on the mound this season have inured him to anything.

"The more games I appear in," says Christopher, who never played hard ball from the time he was 15 until he was 20 years old, "the better I like it."

And the times when he saves a close game?

"Oh, I don't care about victories—let the other fellows have the credit. I don't need them," explained the elongated hurler.

"As long as I can get some action every other day or so, I'm contented," Christopher, a native of Port Richmond, Calif., explains.

Russ, who had no particular yen for major league baseball, says he has his mother to thank for his success. After Russ' younger brother, Lloyd, became the star of the Port Richmond team and then moved into organized baseball, Russ' mother asked him:

"Why don't you see what you can do in baseball?"

So, to please his mother, Russ gave baseball a whirl.

Aimed For Yankees

He went to a University of California professor who had a tie-in with the Cincinnati Reds, the late Charles Chapman, and asked for a chance to play with his independent team, the Orinda Reds.

Russ played five games in the outfield and hit so well that he was offered a contract with the Cincinnati club. However, nothing less than the New York Yankees suited Russ.

A couple of scouts for the Yankees were conducting a baseball camp and Russ soon caught on, was sent to El Paso, Tex., and then to the class D Clovis team. There was a shortage of pitchers at Clovis and for no good reason, Russ decided to become one. However, after winning seven and losing five, his arm went

Important Playoff Game At Orrtanna

Bendersville can clinch the first half championship of the Adams County Baseball league by winning from Orrtanna when the teams play off a postponed game at Orrtanna Wednesday evening at 6:15 o'clock.

Bendersville needs a victory to clinch the title while a win for Orrtanna will give that team as well as Bendersville and Hanover a chance to deadlock for the honors. In the event Bendersville loses on Wednesday the team will have to play off another postponement with Littlestown before the top team is determined. Defeats at the hands of Orrtanna and Littlestown would throw the present first half leaders into a four-way tie for first place.

All Star Softball Team Will Practice

Members of the recently selected All-Star softball team of the Community league are asked by Manager Johnny Knox to report at the high school field Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock for practice.

The All-Stars will play the first of a best out of three game series with the unbeaten State Highway team next Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock on the high school field.

Proceeds from the series will be put into a fund to be used to aid injured players.

dead and he returned to his home and to softball.

The following year, 1938, Russ gave hardball another try, this time with the Kenesley Independents, and after four games in the outfield, was called in one day in an emergency to pitch. From then on, no one could touch him.

A short time later, the Yanks took him on again and Russ began his climb in the New York outfit that led to 16 victories at Newark in 1941. Then two years later, after the A's had acquired him, Russ blossomed into a 14-game winner and currently is on his way to becoming the American league's top relief pitcher.

Japan began exporting tea through the Dutch East India Company in 1700.

LANCASTER BOY IS NAMED TOPS IN JUNIOR TILT

Philadelphia, July 29 (P)—Selection by Major league scouts of Clarence (Beaky) Watson, 16-year-old Lancaster schoolboy pitcher, as the outstanding player in the fourth annual Eastern Pennsylvania Legion Junior baseball game was Watson's second great triumph in his life. His first was a successful battle against rheumatic fever three years ago.

The youthful hurler from Post 604, Manheim township, pitched the first three innings for the "Phillies," striking out five batters and allowing only one hit, a scratch single by Gene Sabato of Philadelphia's Southern high school.

The "Athletics," however scored four runs in the sixth inning and added three more in the seventh to take a 7 to 6 victory over Watson's teammates yesterday at Shibe park in the annual fair sponsored by the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Ruth Gets Ovation

Watson received 65 points in the balloting, including all but three of 16 first place votes. John Brown, Lebanon, a second baseman, was second with 27; Owen Dougherty, Dunmore first baseman, third with 24; Bob Dunn, Kennett Square Centerfielder, fourth, 21, and Adolph Khucitas, Plymouth first baseman, fifth, 16.

George Hermon (Babe) Ruth was guest of honor and received a wild ovation. The winners were coached by Chief Bender, pitcher for Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics more than 30 years ago. Earle Brucker, Jocko Collins and Cy Morgan coached the losers.

Robert Gilbert of Lewistown, who took over the "Phillies" hurling chores in the fourth, got himself into holes twice but kept the "A's" from scoring each time. He was relieved by Joseph Mensinger, Ringtown, who was on the mound when the fireworks started in the sixth.

Sabato started the inning with his third straight single and Stan Majewski, Bethlehem, who had replaced Copley's Nathan Kemmerer in left field, reached first on short-stop William Kirby's error. Kirby, Marcus Hook, errored again on a slow roller by Laureldale's Jim Dojan and the bases were loaded.

Hanover Boy In Game

Hanover's Frank Moore was safe on a third error by Kirby, Sabato scoring on a passed ball and Majewski coming in on the single. Dojan and Moore worked a double steal and Dojan scored. The fourth run came in on Fullerton's George Williams' single. Williams batted for Frank Pipruato, Easton.

The "A's" three runs in the seventh came on singles by John Brown of Lebanon, Majewski and Owen Dougherty, Dunmore.

The "Phillies" scored four in the first off Richard Walton of Berwick on three walks, a fielder's choice and two singles. Walton held them to one single and one walk in the other two innings he worked.

David Barkdel of Quincy allowed a "Phillie" marker in the fifth and Richard Shamon of Olyphant gave up the final "Phil" run in the eighth. "Phillies" 400 010 010—6 8 3 "Athletics" 000 004 30x—7 9 2

Watson, Gilbert, Mensinger, Kaufman (Quakertown) and Lee Saver- (Lansdale), Sinclair N. Muir (Havertown); Walton, Barkdel, Shamon and John Daywalt (Norristown), Wilbur Spangler (Lebanon).

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Local Miscellany: Prof. George W. Baker, of Abbotstown, has been elected principal of the Spring Grove schools.

The Grand Jurors to the United States District Court from this county which will meet in Philadelphia on August 16, are Harvey S. Plank, and John N. Slifer. The petit jurors are Robert S. Bream and Levi Spangler.

Mr. J. Tawney, of this place, has purchased a fine Lester piano, walnut case, from A. M. Ordway, of Hagerstown, Md.

Removed.—H. J. Brinkerhoff, Jr., has removed his Meat Market to the Crawford building, across the street.

General News: The report of the discovery of gold in the Klondike district of Alaska and British Columbia has attracted great attention during the past week throughout the country.

An Outrage: What are our police paid for? Some people think they are paid "just to put on their uniforms and walk around town."

One thing is sure they don't keep any kind of order.

Last week one evening a man, very drunk, made his appearance at the W. M. Railroad and wanted to buy a ticket. The agent refused to sell him one. He became very abusive, using language not fit for ladies to hear. The Chief-of-Police was present, and an employee of the road requested him to take charge of the drunken man. The Chief smiled, and walked away, and the "drunk" was not arrested.

Another day last week a man drove a horse and buggy to town, and at 9 o'clock a. m., hitched it in front of G. W. Weaver and Son's store. At 4 o'clock, p. m., it was still there, without having any feed or water. It was reported to the Chief, but his reply was "he had nothing to do with horses."

It might be well for our Burgess to instruct the police as to their duties.

Last week a party of sixteen, mostly ladies, arrived on the 10:27 train. They were surrounded by the hackmen, and detained there over 30 minutes—could not force their way out of the mob. They wanted to know if they had to put up with such conduct. One of the ladies remarked that if they ever came to this place again, "they would bring their gentlemen friends along and also guns." The Chief was there and seemed to enjoy it.

The Burgess informs us that he has reprimanded the police over and over again, but they pay no attention to his orders in regard to drunken and disorderly persons on the street. At one time the Burgess ordered the arrest of a man that he had seen insulting women, and one of the police refused to make the arrest.

Personal Mention: Mr. and Mrs. Greenawald, of York, are visiting Miss Laura Blocher.

Chas. Mumper and family are visiting friends in Mechanicsburg and Carlisle.

Today's Talk

COOPERATION

We need the cooperation of many others to make this life of ours a good success. Too many fail, however, because of an unwillingness to cooperate. They believe in it, but for the other fellow. That's where all cooperation falls down.

We must not only cooperate with others but we must cooperate with ourselves. We have powers and abilities within us that often only show up when we need their cooperation in connection with others. We have to help out that mythical "George." We can't talk to him, get him in a pleasant mood, and then just walk out on him.

"Billy" Muldoon, the famous athlete and trainer of men, once said that it was wonderful how the body responded to a little kindness. In other words, to have health, a strong faith, and a will to achieve cooperation is essential. We have to get along with ourselves, and learn of the cooperating forces of the body, before we can intelligently cooperate with others. We become useful after thoroughly becoming acquainted with ourselves.

If the entire world would only cooperate justly, and unselfishly, all fear of war would be wiped from the mind, and there would be a getting together of all the widely separated forces, that when combined would build of this world a state beyond the present imagination of man.

Thoreau's idea of cooperation "in the highest as well as the lowest sense," was "to get our living together."

Every day of our lives we are called upon to cooperate in some manner or other. God and Nature expect it from us. It is the only method, of which we know, that works between people. It builds nations, wins wars, and can bring about a universal peace, if the cooperation is genuine, born in the heart, and backed by an undying faith.

When there is established a genuine cooperation between capital and labor, all strikes will be at an end. The time is going to come when it will be good business to take labor into partnership with capital. That will indeed be a happy marriage day for both, and the pledge word will be—cooperation!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "One Day at a Time."

Just Folks

The Poet of the People
By EDGAR A. GUEST

STATESMAN

Is it good for the party, but harmful for all?
Will it gain or lose votes at the polls in the fall?
Shall I be derided and doomed to defeat?
These are questions that often the statesman must meet.

Am I big enough now to be faithful and strong,
Standing up for the cause in the face of the throng?
Will it injure my country, but add to my pride?
Such questions the statesman must often decide.

Am I valiant in times of decision, or weak?
Is it honor or votes for myself that I seek?
Am I true to my country or craving applause?
Can I dare, though alone, to give voice to the cause?

Yet, always the man in the dark hours of need
With devotion to truth and the courage to lead,
Choosing right above self, with the patience to wait,
Goes down into history, honored and great.

U. S. MAKING FIVE STUDIES OF RESOURCES

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 29 (AP)—No less than five important government studies are being made to find out: 1. What kind of resources we have, like coal, steel, food, oil and so on. 2. How much of them we can give Europe without hurting ourselves.

President Truman ordered three of the studies. The state department is doing a fourth. And in Congress the House is starting a fifth.

All, in one way or another, tie in with Secretary of State Marshall's proposal to help Europe. This was: We'll try to help you get on your feet if you try to help yourselves and then tell us exactly what you need.

Up To Congress

Europe is working on that now. In the end, Congress will have the final say on the help we give.

Mr. Truman will tell Congress how much of what he thinks we ought to let Europe have. But Congress will do the deciding.

Unless the President can tell Congress how much we have in this country, and how much we can spare, he risks a fight which may ruin the program.

There'll probably be a Congressional fight anyway. But if he's backed up by figures, Mr. Truman will be in a stronger position to argue.

On June 22 he set up three study groups to examine the problems in the second and third paragraphs above. These groups are:

1. His economic advisory council. This council was created by act of Congress in 1946 to keep a constant check on the economic state of the nation.

2. A committee, headed by Secretary of the Interior Krug, to study this country's resources. The committee is made up of top government officials.

3. A special committee of 19 leaders in economics, finance, labor, agriculture and education. It's headed by Secretary of Commerce Harrison.

Mr. Truman called it a non-partisan group and told it to report on how much we can "safely and wisely plan" to give Europe.

The state department committee—called the top policy planning staff—was set up a couple of months ago by Secretary Marshall. Right now its job is to check on what Europe may need.

In Congress the House, controlled by Republicans, didn't seem content to get its information entirely from Mr. Truman's groups.

So it voted to set up a "select committee on foreign aid" with 19 House members. Its job: To study the problem of foreign aid.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, July 29 (AP)—Judging by the entry lists for the national junior and boys tennis championships, the stream of young players that has made Southern California synonymous with top-flight tennis has just about run dry. . . . only five of the 90 entrants in the junior division hail from California and only one, Matt Murphy of San Francisco, is seeded. . . . in the boys' group Robert Perry and Conrad Woods of Los Angeles are seeded one and three and five others are in the field. . . . from the looks of this tourney, Texas may take the place of California as the birthplace of racket stars. . . . Anton Raadik, Estonian middleweight who makes his Garden debut Friday, and Sweden's Ole Tandberg both were members of the European Golden Gloves team that fought in Chicago in 1939.

MONDAY MATINEE
John Galbreath, the Columbus, Ohio, real estate man who owns the Darby Dan stable and a piece of the Pittsburgh Pirates, may turn up any day now as owner of an Ohio newspaper. Wonder what he'll do in his spare time. . . . Washington, D. C., which has done pretty well as a boxing center despite the lack of an adequate arena, now has the new sports center and armory which will seat 20,000 fans. Its bigger than Madison Square Garden and doesn't have a post to interfere with vision. . . . Fred Taylor, the old-time hockey star, has been visiting England, where his daughter Joan has been drawing rave notices as a fancy skater. Fred used to be a pretty fancy skater in his own way. . . . In addition to a new car presented by fans after the basketball season, Coach Bruce Drake got a nice raise in pay from Oklahoma university.

WHAT'S WHIZ?
Noting a "Sporting News" story that Andy Phillip, the former Illinois "Whiz Kid" now playing ball for Decatur of the Three-Eye league, signed his first pro contract with Monett, Mo., of the Arkansas-Missouri league in 1939, Max E. SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES
Ace Adams, who jumped the Giants for the Mexican league, is pitching for a Florida semi-pro club. . . . word from Goshen is that Hoot Mon is back in training but likely won't be in shape for the Hambletonian. . . . virtually every report from the south says Louisiana State is the team to beat in southeastern conference football this year and that Alabama's Harry Gilmer will be the outstanding player. . . . Gibson Bradford of Barnesville, Ohio, who'll drive his own speedboat in the Gold Cup Regatta, was a top driver in the early days of mid-gate auto racing, pilots his own airplane and races trotting horses in what time he has to spare. . . . The football Giants, always noted for their strong lines, think that this season they may have the best two lines in the National football league.

TOWN WATCHES ANXIOUSLY FOR SIGNS OF RAIN

Waynesburg, Pa., July 29 (AP)—The Greene county skies were an ominous baby blue today and the sun shone discouragingly overhead.

Ordinarily, this would have been good, but today is July 29 and local tradition says that it always—well, almost always—rains in Waynesburg on July 29.

There was a right nice spot of rain around 6 or 7 o'clock last night and townspeople listened wistfully to the pitter-patter of raindrops on the roof—wishing they could move them ahead for about 24 hours.

But it quit raining and folks recalled frowningly that U. S. weather forecaster Henry Rockwood, after scanning his weather maps and recording instruments, had uncompromisingly predicted "fair" for today.

Crowd Begins Vigil
Along about midnight, a small crowd had gathered around the courthouse steps, the traditional site for Waynesburg's annual wet weather observations. They were hopeful that the heavens would open and a few drops of water would descend after the clock struck 12. But they didn't.

The 24-hour vigil at the courthouse, presided over by attorney John Daily, high priest of the weather cult, was to continue until rain falls or time runs out on July 29.

Police expected the observance to be orderly but observed darkly that if there was no rainfall before tonight, it was likely an emergency squad, dressed in slickers and carrying umbrellas, would patrol the scene.

Daily, who has bet comedian Bob Hope a hat that it will rain, remained unshaken in his faith in the tradition.

"In 71 years," said Daily, "it has failed to rain on July 29 only four times. One of these times was last year and it cost me a $50 bet to Jack Dempsey. A thing like that couldn't happen twice in a row!"

Western Pennsylvania, has had only 10 rainless days this month. "You see how it is," said Daily. "It's a wet month. July 29 just couldn't double-cross us like that!"

Priest Dies Day After Anniversary
Denver, July 29 (AP)—The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Hugh L. McMenamin, 75-year-old native of Freeland, Pa., died Saturday—a day after he celebrated his 44th anniversary as rector of the Immaculate Conception Cathedral.

Msgr. McMenamin, a circus clown in his youth before entering the priesthood, reportedly was the first priest to use radio to broadcast Christmas midnight mass.

RETAIN SOCIAL SECURITY TAX, ONE PER CENT

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Until 1950 the social security tax on you—means most workers and employers—will continue to be one per cent. That's what the tax has been since the beginning of social security. Before it adjourned last week-end, Congress voted to keep the tax at that figure until 1950.

Since this is a tax taken out of the income of most families, here is an explanation of it.

In the mid 1930's Congress decided that workers when they grew old should get some kind of protection, and so should their families, if the workers died.

This could have two forms: charity or insurance. Congress decided on insurance for which the workers themselves would help pay.

So in 1935 it passed the social security act, but the act didn't go into effect for two years. Starting in 1937, this is what has been happening:

Tax Up To $3,000

On the pay they earned up to $3,000, a tax of one per cent is deducted from the pay of workers "covered" by the insurance. Not all are.

And the employers of such workers pay a tax of one per cent on the pay each worker earns up to $3,000 a year.

But no one, under the law, could start receiving any benefits from the social security system until 1940.

This gave the government a chance to build up its social security fund from the taxes it started taking back in 1937.

But, starting in 1940, it has been making monthly benefit payments to:

1. Retired workers, men and women, who have reached 65.

2. An additional monthly benefit for a retired worker's wife, if she is 65, and for his unmarried children under 18.

In 1940, the first year benefits were given, about 108,000 people received them. Now about 1,771,000 are receiving them. The number grows every year.

50 Million Paying

About 50,000,000 people are now paying the one per cent tax: 47,500,000 are workers and 3,000,000 are employers.

(About 25,000,000 workers are not paying the tax because they are not "covered" under the law and therefore can't receive the benefits.)

(These include railroad workers (there's a special section for them); employees of federal, state and local governments; agricultural workers; domestic servants; self-employed people; and people working for non-profit organizations.)

To build up the fund to take care of the future heavy drain on it, Congress voted this:

To raise the tax gradually from one per cent, starting in 1943, until it reached three per cent, starting in 1949.

But each time Congress blocked the scheduled increase and finally decided to let it stay at one per cent until January 1, 1948, when it would become 2½ per cent.

So the increase would have come next January 1 if Congress last week once more had not stepped in and said "no."

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

As a traveler thru your famous village since 1935 I have enjoyed the scenery and hospitality of this Garden Spot. Even without the Battle-field as an attraction, your locale has much to offer the weary traveler or the nature lover.

The most surprising thing to me is civic pride.

At one time St. Louis was infamous for its smoke. Civic pride was aroused and smoke abatement resulted. Even Pittsburgh, "The Smoky City" has tired of its nuisance and is doing something about it.

The reputation of the mosquito in Gettysburg is spreading. You can't expect to entertain thousands of travelers and tourists annually and keep it a secret. If civic pride asserts itself in Gettysburg, it will be found that there are no secrets about fighting the mosquito.

I dare say that if scientific information is desired your scientists from the local college would gladly respond. Need I mention the U. S. Army or the Department of Agriculture?

I cannot help but arrive at one conclusion, Mr. Editor, viz, that the lack is not scientific, not monetary, but lack of civic pride.

In this village where Lincoln, the Great Emancipator, made his famous address, it is fast becoming infamous on account of its mosquitoes. If Lincoln could return from the grave to visit Gettysburg, wouldn't you people be ashamed to expose him to a night of horror from mosquitoes that outnumber your population by thousands?

Much as I like Gettysburg, to avoid the mosquito horror, I must avoid Gettysburg, henceforth, I will be glad to know when civic pride asserts itself and the pests are no more.

Use Old Model T For 2nd Honeymoon

Minneapolis, July 28 (AP)—Eighty-one-year-old Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hielscher of Seattle, Wash., prepared Monday to take off in their 1921 Model T Ford for Detroit, Mich., on their second honeymoon.

They celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary Sunday near famed Minnehaha Falls by renewing their marriage vows while 400 relatives and friends watched. Stewart Hielscher, Seattle, a grandson, gave the "bride" away. Attendants were two brothers and two sisters of Mrs. Hielscher, whose ages ranged from 67 to 89.

The couple said they expected no difficulty in reaching Detroit in the 26-year-old car that recently brought them 1,500 miles from Seattle and which already had covered 135,000 miles.

PENNSYLVANIA FAIRS EXPECT RECORD YEAR

Harrisburg, July 29 (AP)—A $2,000,000 season for county and community fairs in Pennsylvania was predicted today by Miles Horst, state agricultural secretary.

Starting with the Clearfield county fair which opened today, the season will feature the presentation of 96 fairs, most of which will be eligible for state aid toward payment of premiums for outstanding agricultural exhibits.

Receipts from the 1947 exhibits were expected to exceed those of last year, when $1,838,000 was grossed. Profits were close to $750,000. Total receipts in 1946 were slightly more than $1,000,000 and profits were placed at $212,500.

However, last year's attendance of 2,529,000 does not compare with the 3,608,000 clocked at the turnstiles in 1939, Horst said.

In addition to the Clearfield fair this week, the P. O. S. of A. fair at Oriental, Juniata county, opens Wednesday and runs through Saturday. The Tioga Valley and Bedford fairs are scheduled for all of next week.

Many Fairs Expand

Previously unannounced fair dates were given today by Horst as follows: Greene county fair, Waynesburg, September 18-20; Townville Community fair, Crawford county, September 18-20; Newton-Ransom fair, Clark's Summit, September 17-20; Cambridge Springs Community fair, Crawford county, September 18-20; Port Allegany Community fair, McKean county, October 9-11; and Sinking Valley Community farm show, Blair county, October 16-18.

The Greene county and many other fairs are planning to expand their agricultural exhibits this season. The grounds at Waynesburg are being expanded to feature approximately 130 saddle horses, 30 draft horses, 50 beef cattle, 50 sheep and 30 dairy cattle.

Former Major And German Wife United

Philadelphia, July 29 (AP)—Former Army Major Raymond Bell, 27, was reunited Monday with his German wife and their two children.

Bell, who met his wife in Wall-durk in 1945 while serving with the army, postponed an appendectomy and left his hospital bed Sunday to go to the airport to await the arrival of his family.

His wife, the former Ernestine Mueller, and her 16-month-old son and their two month-old daughter whom he had never seen, arrived in New York and then caught a plane to Philadelphia.

Escaped Prisoner Is Glad To Be Back

Pottsville, Pa., July 29 (AP)—John Homa is back in the Schuylkill county jail from which he escaped 18 years ago, glad that it is all over.

Homa, who had served 10 months of his five to ten year sentence on a robbery charge, was brought back from Detroit by Pennsylvania officers who identified him after a routine check of fingerprints issued in a circular following Homa's arrest on a larceny charge in Detroit.

County Detective Bruce Clayton said Homa told him he was tired of dodging the law and was "glad it was over." The convict told Clayton he was constantly in fear he would get mixed up in something that would result in his identification and that he never took a steady job because of the possibility fingerprints would result in his discovery.

Lives To Describe Bolt of Lightning

Lancaster, Ohio July 29 (AP)—Roy Huffman, 54, was alive today, able to describe what it felt like to be struck by lightning.

Treated for his injuries at a hospital here, Huffman said he was standing at the door of his cottage when a bolt struck the front porch late Sunday.

"A green flame enveloped me," he said. "It felt as if thousands of red hot needles—and I really mean hot—were sticking me."

The lightning ripped the shoes on his feet to shreds, singed his legs and tore his trousers.

X-rays disclosed his worst injuries were three broken toes.

Former Mayor Of DuBois Dies

DuBois, Pa., July 29 (AP)—W. Henry Cawthra, 78, mayor of DuBois from 1932 to 1940, was found dead Saturday in his hotel apartment.

The coroner's office said death apparently was due to a heart attack. Cawthra was born in Rochester, N. Y. He had been living in Indianapolis, Ind., returning here about a month ago.

BRITISH HANG THREE JEWS IN JAIL OUTBREAK

Jerusalem, July 29 (AP)—The British hanged three Jews today in defiance of a Jewish underground threat to retaliate with the execution of two British hostages and "bathe the Holy Land with blood."

A British military announcement said Meir Nakar, Yacoub Weiss and Absalom Habib were put to death between 4 and 5 a.m. in Acre prison on Palestine's north coast for their part in the May 4 break there, in which 251 prisoners were freed and 16 persons were killed.

A Jewish underground source said last night that Irgun Zval Leumi, to which the three belonged, had tried British Sergeants Clifford Martin and Mervin Paice and condemned them to death for being members of a force "illegally occupying Palestine" and "conspiring to oppress the rightful citizens of Palestine." The sergeants were kidnapped July 12 at Natanya.

Search For Hostages Irgun had held Martin and Paice since their kidnapping and British soldiers and police searched eight Jewish vicinities near Tel Aviv last night in an effort to liberate them.

Less than three hours before the executions, an empty pillbox near the prison was blasted—apparently, officials said, by a mine. No casualties were reported.

Only an hour after the hangings had been made public, a grenade was thrown at a police armored car.

Insurance Agents Go Back To Work

Pittsburgh, July 29 (AP)—Sixty-five agents of the Pennsylvania Mutual Life Insurance Co. began collecting premiums again Monday—their 12-week strike ended.

The agents, working in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, announced a settlement during the week-end through Charles G. Helsel, regional director of the CIO United Office and Professional Workers.

Helsel said the union procured a maintenance of membership clause and an additional 1 per cent commission—to make six per cent—on monthly ordinary life accounts. Company officials did not comment on terms of the agreement.

The railroads have received 44 "rules" demands from the leaders of the operating unions . . . representing engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and switchmen. They say they are seeking only changes in working conditions—NOT a wage increase.

More Money For Less Work

But what kind of rules are being asked for? Twenty-eight of them would compel railroads to pay more money for the same, or less work; 7 would require additional and unnecessary men to do the same work; the rest would bring about changes in operating practices at increased cost.

For Instance:

The Union leaders demand additional train and engine crews on Diesel-powered trains—one full crew for every power unit in the locomotive. A freight train hauled by a 4-unit Diesel would have to carry 4 engineers, 4 firemen, 4 conductors, and at least 8 brakemen, or a total of 20 men instead of 5.

"Made Work"—Sheer Waste

The Union leaders demand that full-length freight trains be cut to about half their length, even though such trains are most efficient for low-cost service to you. This rule would call for twice as many locomotives, would double the number of trains, and make accidents more likely.

Additional equipment, yards, and other facilities required to take care of these short trains would cost hundreds of millions. What the Union leaders really want is to make more jobs.

The Union leaders demand that when a crew in one class of service perform incidental service of another class, they will be paid not less than a day's pay for each class, even though all service ductors and trainmen be reduced from 150 to 100 miles, which would have the effect of increasing their pay 50%. Such a run often takes only two or three hours!

You Can't Afford This Waste

Demands like these are against the interests of the whole American people, who depend on railroad service for nearly everything they eat, wear and use.

These rules would cost a BILLION DOLLARS annually—a gigantic waste which neither the railroads nor the country can afford.

Railroad workers are good citizens and good employees, with pride in their calling. Their record during the war was outstanding. We do not believe they fully understand the "featherbed" rules which the Union leaders are demanding. We do not believe they understand the harmful results which these rules would have to the railroad industry, to the millions of men and women dependent on railroads for their livelihood, and to the shipping and consuming public.

The great strength of America is in production—an honest day's work for an honest day's pay.

For only through greater production can we hope to stop the steady upward surge of living costs.

Surely, if ever there was a time in our history when we needed to work, not waste, this is it.

Chapter 26

Howard Cranston was still obnoxious, but in a less obvious manner. He was just as determined as ever to manhandle John Bates' precious camera equipment. He seemed bent and determined upon finding out what made the thing click at the proper time, even if he had to tear it apart in the process.

John Bates took all of this with commendable patience, and Susan took her behavior cue from him. If John could take this—well, she could take anything.

Cranston had recovered his voice, to some extent. The only thing that pained the others from his incessant chatter was the fact that he was trying to save it.

"We'll be leaving here in a couple of days," he croaked, pointing out that the house party was almost over. "I'm getting a new selling job. I've been angling for for years, so I've got to save myself. See?"

"What is your new job, Mr. Cranston?" Mrs. Tremont, always gracious and considerate of others, felt that someone should make at least a show of interest. "You're not giving up salesmanship, are you?"

"Jeepers—no!" boomed Cranston, regretting his resolution to save his voice for more profitable matters. It's just that I'm signing up with the Bye-Lo Company. Biggest manufacturers of baby carriages in the country."

"I thought you were already selling baby carriages," Anne Peyton poked up. "To bachelors," she added, recalling Howard Cranston's absurd boasts.

Cranston laughed uproariously. Oh, that was just one of my pet jokes," he said, when he could speak. "Too bad I can't tell you adies the rest of it. Me—I've been selling insurance. I'm just changing my job. By the end of the year I'm to have a Bye-Lo go-cart in every home in America. How's that or a slogan?"

"That's fine—er—just fine," Anne returned weakly.

"Think you'll be in the market for a Bye-Lo by the end of the year, Mrs. Peyton? If you are, just get in touch with yours truly," Cranston went on, obvious to the shocked faces of the listeners.

Anne Peyton turned away in disgust, her small heart-shaped face crimson. It was clear from the set of her red lips that Howard J. Cranston would have to do some talk talking indeed if he ever placed a Bye-Lo in the Peyton home. In fact, she said as much to Susan, who was standing nearby.

The young Peytons were no problem to the cameraman. They were delightfully photogenic and seemed to have overcome their distaste for being photographed. No special posing was required. They had only to look at each other, and romantic pictures were born. As John Bates expressed it, they were the perfect answer to a cameraman's prayer.

"You know," Anne confided to Susan, as John readjusted his camera for another shot, "George and I feel a little ashamed of ourselves for the way we've been acting. It was pretty mean of us to hide out while pictures were being taken, but—well, we were sort of embarrassed to have our friends back in Springfield know we were here."

"But why?" Susan wanted to know. "Never mind," she added before Anne could speak. "I know. You'd been married only two weeks and the contest was for people who'd had marital problems—and you didn't have a problem at all. It's all right, Anne. We've loved saving you here."

"But we did so—have a problem. I mean. We wanted a real honeymoon, and I knew George couldn't afford it."

Susan nodded understandingly. "I know. But it was too bad you and George didn't get together on your stories. I'm not cross with you, of course, but you really shouldn't have put us on the spot like that. If the readers found out, it would be just too bad for America Loves."

Anne was genuinely distressed. "Oh, I know I did wrong, and I'm terribly sorry. George was pretty sore when he found out what I'd written in that letter. He said it was downright dishonest—and it was. I suppose we'd have had a real problem then, if he hadn't loved me so much."

Susan caught her arm and squeezed it reassuringly. "Suppose we just forget it, dear. You and George are the nicest people here, and I'm not a bit angry."

Anne smiled her gratitude. "Thanks—a lot."

Bella and Frank Gaines, in spite of their earnest efforts to be helpful, still constituted a problem for the photographer. They did their best to follow John Bates' instructions as to posing, and it wasn't their fault that their best wasn't good enough. It was a matter of physical disparity rather than a lack of cooperation on their part.

Except for the fact that both were reasonably young, they might have been mother and son instead of husband and wife. It was indeed a tribute to John Bates' skill as a photographer that the pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gaines which appeared later in America Loves were of a decidedly handsome, divinely happy young married couple.

Finally John declared himself satisfied and the guests, accompanied by Mrs. Tremont, trooped back into the house. Steve Gellis sat down on the grass beside Susan while John wiped off the lens of his camera with a soft cloth which he pulled out of his pocket.

"Good work, John," Steve said. "I think you got some pretty good shots this time. I guess that winds up the job. You'll be leaving us now, I take it."

John pursed his lips and continued to polish the lens of his camera. "I may stick around for a few days, Steve, if it's just the same to you. There are still a couple of loose ends dangling. I'd like to make sure these negatives are all right, so you'll have a good display in the magazine."

"Sure thing, Bates," Steve nodded. "Glad to have you, aren't we, Susie?" he added, including her in the conversation. "But I wouldn't want to hold you up. Matter of fact, I doubt if we'll be using many of those pictures. We won't have too much space. I haven't decided yet, but I may be changing the entire policy."

Chapter 27

Susan was appalled.

"You—you mean you're changing the whole magazine?" she asked. "Oh, but you can't!"

"Now, Susie!" John held up a warning finger. "Hold your horses. A man's got a right to change his magazine. What were you going to say, Steve?"

"I may change the format, the content—even the name. How does America Lives strike you?"

"I think it's terrible," said Susan. Steve grinned a little sheepishly. "Well, after all, it's a pulp magazine. We can't get too fancy for a sudden. It was one of those letters you brought out from town, Bates, that got me thinking. My magazine's falling off."

"This love stuff we've been printing is passe. Cooking, homemaking, interior decorating seem to be the popular things. The way to a man's heart is still through his stomach. I suppose," he added, laughing.

Susan sat up straight. "Oh, is that so? And I suppose you're eliminating my column, along with the rest of the—er—romantic piffle. After I've written my heart out, trying to help people find happiness."

Steve looked pained, but he was determined to hold his ground. "Exactly," he said. "I'm eliminating all the romantic features and devoting the whole magazine to homemaking. That's the trend now, and I intend to go along with it."

"You can cook 'em, you, Susie?" John Bates made one more valiant attempt to right matters. "You can tell 'em all about how to fry eggs, boil turnips—and stuff and stuff. Heck, I'll bet you're a grand little cook!"

It did no good at all. In fact, it seemed to infuriate Susan all the more. "No, I can't cook. And I wouldn't admit it if I could."

"Please, Susan," Steve begged, reaching out for her hand. "I don't want you working in an office. I've got to talk to you, Susie."

She moved away from him.

"Naturally. Of course you don't want me working in an office—your office. Don't think I don't know it either. And I did walk out last night!" She threw a defiant glance at John Bates. "I didn't have a date. I just walked out because I couldn't bear it any longer. I wrote out my resignation this morning, but that pal of yours—she pointed a scornful finger at John—"persuaded me to tear it up. I hate you, Steve Gellis!"

"Susie, wait a minute," said Steve. "What I was trying to say was—"

But Susan was not listening. She was running across the terrace, toward the house, as fast as her supple legs would carry her.

"So Steve's in love with me, is he?" she muttered. "Why, he doesn't even want me to work for him! John was only making a fool of me."

She frowned suddenly as the thought struck her that she was being a little unfair to John. He hadn't made a fool of her—not really.

"I took care of that little detail myself," she acknowledged unhappily as she opened the door and went into the house.

With considerable deliberation, John Bates folded his camera equipment and put the various accessories into the case designed for that purpose. Then he went over and sat down on the grass near Steve.

"Cut little vixen—Susie. I've always told her that temper of hers would be the ruination of her. She's a spitfire, if ever there was one."

On the surface it was a derogatory statement, but there was something about the way John said it that removed every atom of criticism. It was almost as if he'd said, "She's perfect—to my way of thinking."

Only the words, however registered with Steve, and he frowned. "I don't think so. I wouldn't give a hoot for a girl without spirit. Susan had a perfect right to be upset over the idea that all of her efforts have been wasted. She's worked very hard, and she's done a swell job. If she flared up—well, it was all my fault. I shouldn't have done it that way."

"You're telling me?" he demanded. "That was a fine way to tell a girl you love her. I don't want you working in an office," he mimicked.

"You're in love with her too, aren't you, Bates?"

The question came unexpectedly and John did not answer immediately. He lit a cigarette, taking his own good time about it, took several puffs.

"Heck, yes," he exclaimed, and ground out the cigarette with unnecessary vehemence. "I've been in love with Susie ever since I laid eyes on her, though I can't see that it's any of your affair."

"Well, you needn't get sore about it," Steve muttered. "I figured you were in love with her. I decided she was your girl, so I let her alone. After all, I'm not that kind of a louse."

John managed a feeble grin, remembering that he had once called Steve that very thing. "I'm not sore, I'm shoving off, aren't I? She's all yours, brother."

It was Steve's turn to grin feebly now. "I have an idea Susan will have something to say about that."

"Well," said John, "you don't have to worry. Even if Susan loved me—which she doesn't—we wouldn't be good for each other. We're too hot-headed, both of us. We'd be at each other's throats all the time."

Steve got up and they began walking toward the house.

"Besides," John went on, with characteristic honesty. "I'd never be satisfied to stay put. I'd always be wanting to go places and do things. I'd be dragging poor Susie around from place to place, all over the world. It's the gypsy in me, I guess. But that's no life for a woman."

Steve was thoughtful for a moment. "I guess you're right, Bates," he agreed. "But I still feel like a dirty so-and-so for putting in."

John's grin was genuine this time. "Think nothing of it. Suppose we skip all this Alphonse-Gaston business. If you don't get a move on, big boy, you're going to lose that little hell-cat yet. You've no idea how stubborn she can be when she gets really mad."

Unconsciously Steve Gellis increased his pace.

PRESIDENT TO RETURN HOME; TIRED, DRAWN

Grandview, Mo., July 29 (AP)—Tired and a little drawn, President Truman prepared to return to the White House today, leaving his mother in a flower-laden grave shaded by trees from the hot Missouri sun.

The Presidential plane was readied for a 10 a.m. central standard time (11 A.M., EST) take-off for Washington, where a pile of legislation, crowded through in the closing days of Congress awaited Mr. Truman's consideration.

Mrs. Martha Ellen Truman, 94, who said her son could "do anything just a little better than anyone else," was buried yesterday in Forest Hill cemetery at Kansas City, beside the unmarked grave of the President's father, John A. Truman.

The President and his family sat in the kitchen of her little house in Grandview and others filled the dining room and parlor, while the Rev. Welbern Bowman, a near neighbor, read a simple, 20-minute funeral service. There was no eulogy because, he said, "she would not have wanted a eulogy."

Admits He's Tired

The vitality of the President was sapped by his sorrow.

He admitted to friends that he was "tired," and those who saw him while the last rites were recited over the casket said that tense facial lines "really showed his grief."

Only 37 persons, kin to the Trumans with few exceptions, were present as the final words of comfort were spoken—"The Lord is my Shepherd" and "The days of our years are three score years and ten."

Thirty floral pieces were banked beside the tree-shaded grave though the Trumans asked that no flowers be sent. One, an upright wreath of roses and gladioli—bore a ribbon inscribed "Members of the United States Senate."

Men who enter West Point Military Academy must be between the ages of 17 and 22.

Eric Pressing League Leaders

(By The Associated Press)

The Eric Sailors pushed their winning streak to six games last night and pressed to within a game of the league-leading Vandergrift Pioneers by downing the Oil City Refiners in a double bill, 6-4 and 10-2.

The second game was called on account of fog after Eric had batted in six runs in the top of the seventh. Billy Pavlick smashed two homers to drive in five Sailor runs in the first game.

All the other teams in the league split doubleheaders.

Butler made it three out of four over Uniontown by winning a second game, 5-3, after dropping the first, 6-0.

After capturing a first game from Youngstown, 6-4, Niagara Falls took a tremendous shellacking in the second, 17-6. Vandergrift won the first game from Johnstown, 3-3, then lost the night cap, 3-1.

TWO FACTIONS SEEK JUDGESHIP

Harrisburg, July 29 (AP)—With the deadline past for withdrawal of nominations petitions it was certain today that at least three major fights in Republican ranks for judicial nominations were up for decision at the primary election on September 9.

While 32 counties are selecting new judges this fall, only in Cumberland county has the judicial fight reached the point where the Republican leadership of the county may depend on the outcome.

The present GOP chairman, the Rev. Eber Vance, is backing District Attorney Dale F. Shughart, Carlisle, for the common pleas vacancy created by the recent death of Judge Fred S. Reese, while Roy Richwine, comptroller in the state Highways Department, has thrown his support behind Ray T. Harrigan, a former district attorney, of Mechanicsburg, Lynn Irvine, also of Mechanicsburg, is a third candidate for the Republican nomination.

Five In Race

In Lackawanna county five Republicans are still in the race for the common pleas seat now held by Judge Will Leach, Gomer W. Morgan, and Everett A. Rosser, two Scranton attorneys, withdrew from the race at the last minute.

The third contest developed in Delaware county where five candidates are in the field, including Judge Albert Dutton McDade, for the GOP nomination. Four other candidates withdrew yesterday. They are Wendell W. Warner, Wayne; Theodore Smithers, Ridley Park; Joseph D. Calhoun, Norwood, and Edward H. P. Fronfeld, Wayne.

In Allegheny county the withdrawal of Clarence B. Nixon, of Carnegie, left 13 still competing for the five party nominations in that area, with the five incumbents all seeking re-election.

CODE VIOLATOR

Norton Lewis Redding, Gettysburg, was recently arrested by state police in York county for failing to stop at a through traffic signal.

EASTERN LEAGUE

(By The Associated Press)

The Eastern league's fourth-place Williamsport Tigers, with a 2-1 series victory over the tail-end Elmira Pioneers under their belts awaited a clash today with second-place Wilkes-Barre.

The Tigers staged a four-run, ninth-inning rally last night on their home field to take the series finale, 6 to 5.

Meanwhile, the Albany Senators swamped the Hartford Chiefs, 10 to 1, and the Scranton Miners defeated the Wilkes-Barre Barons, 6 to 3. Rain postponed the scheduled Utica-Binghamton contest.

About 900 pounds of cottonseed are produced to every 500-pound bale of cotton.

Baltimore Livestock

CATTLE—Receipts at the initial period this week were slightly increased as compared with the same period a week ago. Run was made up chiefly of slaughter steers and cows. Trading in general was moderately active and all slaughter cattle, except common and low-medium cows, sold steady with the close of last week. Common and low-medium cows sold very slow with practically no reliable outlet and prices were weak to mostly 50c. lower.

In the slaughter steer division, top-medium to average-good grassfat and shortfed steers, $23.25-26.15, 925-1,205 lbs. day's top $28 for a load of top-grade and choice fed steers around 1,655 lbs. few 327. Medium grade grassfats, mostly lightweights, $18-23. Cattle and common steers, in light supply, $13.50-16.50.

The heifer supply light and consisted mainly of medium and good grassy kinds, $18-24. Common lightweights before from $16. Good beef cows largely, $17.50-18.50, with odd head lots of good young, $19-21. Common and medium cows of dairy-breeding, $13.25-16.75 and canners and cutters, $10-18 with lightweight "shells" common, $2.

Good beef bulls mostly, $18.50-20 with an odd head as high as $22. Medium and good weights, average bulls, $16.50-18 with light and mediumweight, $14.50-16.25. Lightweight Southern bulls, $13.75. Stocker and feeder trade unchanged from the close of last week. Medium and good stocker and feeder steers from 850 lbs. down, $18-22.60 with lightweight common, $13.50-16.50.

CALVES—Vealers active and steady with the close of last week. Mixed lots of good and choice, $22. Common and medium, $9-16 and culls around $7 with a few underweights, less than 80 lbs., $4. Good 275-300-lb. slaughter calves from $16-18.

HOGS—Swine trading fairly active and $1 higher than the close of last week. Practical top to $29.50, the highest price that freedom. Our freedom stops at that point where we infringe on the liberty of others. Thus there must be laws to protect all citizens. We cannot have our pie and eat it too.

"Thus we cannot permit freedom of speech and press to be used to take away our freedoms, to promote ideologies of Communism and Fascism. We cannot permit a select group of labor, perhaps some 400,000 out of 140,000,000, to cause unemployment, strife, and difficulties for all of the rest.

"The ancients valued highly Roman citizenship, yet what had Roman citizenship to offer compared to United States citizenship?

"We cannot be good citizens, we cannot be patriotic, without properly assessing the outlook of the citizens of yesterday. While 'citizen' comes from a word meaning 'of the city,' patriotism comes from a word meaning 'of the father.' We must recall to mind that for which the men of 1776, 1812, 1863, 1898, 1918 and 1941 fought in order to save the heritage that they purchased so dearly for us."

Flagpole Performer At Willow Mill Park

Dixie Blandy, of Dayton, Ohio, world's champion endurance bicyclist and world's champion flagpole stander, arrived at Willow Mill Park this week and set up his 60-foot steel pole on which he will perform for three days and three nights beginning Thursday. Blandy will go aloft on top of his pole at 11 p. m. on Thursday and will remain there until Sunday at 11 p. m.

During the three days, Dixie's quarters will be on an 8-inch steel disc on which he will ride a bicycle for 36 hours and perform as a flagpole stander for an additional 36 hours.

When he rests, Blandy lashes himself to a steel backrest for fear of wind currents and natural fatigue. He will perform any of his feats for spectators at any time of the day or night.

England, the flag of King Henry the Seventh.

From the landing of the Mayflower, in 1620, until 1775, the flag of England was our flag. In 1605, the field of the English flag had been changed from white to blue, and the white cross of St. Andrew was placed thereon by order of King James I, and the banner was called the Union of the King's colors.

In 1607 the colors of the flag was changed from blue to crimson, and the two crosses on a blue field were placed in the upper corner.

The colonies recognized the change and placed a pine tree on a white field, in lieu of the crosses.

In 1775 the pine tree flag was adopted for all colonial vessels, and this banner was carried by the Americans in the battle of Bunker Hill.

The southern colonies from 1776 to 1777 used the snake flag.

In the latter part of 1775 a committee was appointed by the Continental Congress to consider the question of a single flag for the thirteen colonies.

That committee recommended that the design should be thirteen alternate stripes of red and white in the upper corner of which would be an azure field bearing the red cross of St. George, and the white cross of St. Andrew. John Paul Jones, the senior lieutenant of the flag-ship "Alfred" hoisted this flag to the masthead on December 3, 1775; one month later it was raised over the headquarters of Gen. George Washington, at Cambridge, Massachusetts, "in compliment," as he wrote, "to the United Colonies."

This flag, which was called "The Congress Colors," and "The Grand Union Flag" was never carried in the field by the continental land forces, but it was used by the navy as its exclusive ensign, and was the first American flag to receive a foreign salute of honor. ## BRITISH LABOR PARTY PLEADS FOR MORE COAL

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The vital part which coal production is playing in the European economic crisis, and consequently in the turbulent political situation, was well emphasized by two developments during the week-end—one in England and the other in Germany.

British Foreign Minister Bevin in an impassioned appeal to his country's workers in general, and to the coal miners in particular, warned that they must produce more or risk the fall of the Socialist government and a weakening of Britain's position in world affairs. Increased production, he said, would enable the country to give foreign credits which would help diplomacy.

He was addressing thousands of miners whose production is the key to England's economic recovery.

"My God, working men and women," he cried, "this is the first Labor (Socialist) government you have got. Don't let it fail, for the sake of generations to come. Your Labor government is carrying on in foreign affairs without the tools to do the job and it must be helped out."

Strong Language

That's strong and most unusual language to come from a cabinet minister, but it doesn't exaggerate the dangers of the situation in which the government finds itself as it struggles with England's first all-out experiment in Socialism. The government maintains that it has been caught in a rush of war-born circumstances which it hasn't been able to control thus far, while Bevin's predecessor in the foreign office, conservative Anthony Eden, said in an address Saturday that Labor has divided the nation when a united effort is needed.

Be that as it may, British conservatives are saying that unless production is increased the people will suffer hardships which will impel them to turn out the Socialist government and elect new leaders. Bevin noted in his speech that such talk was going the rounds.

The German incident related to the Ruhr hard-coal production upon which the economic recovery of the continent depends so heavily. The output is so far below requirements that the situation is critical. In an effort to remedy this, the British and American occupation authorities have devised a plan which is calculated to give miners an incentive for digging more coal.

This is a bonus in food — a matter of moment among people who have been going on short rations. Folk who are hungry think with their bellies.

The authorities have set a target for production in each mine, and if the workers reach the goal in the eleven weeks, beginning today, each will receive a "ten-in-one" ration package from U. S. Army stocks—the equivalent of 40,000 calories. In addition, the men in the mine showing the highest production will get an additional 40,000 calories.

Germany and Britain — in the order named — are by far the most important coal producing countries of Europe. Both England and the continent of course are in dire need of an increase in many kinds of industrial production, but virtually all manufacturing depends on the power produced by coal which must be hewn from the black caverns of the earth by human hands.

Because the human element enters in so heavily one would think that perhaps the incentive bonus being offered in Germany would have its attractions. After all, men go down into the dark and often dangerous mines for a reward. Maybe Mr. Bevin will get a further idea from the project in the Ruhr.
